Summer Safety

Many people love to go to the beach over the summer break. But there are a few things that we all need to be aware of.

1. The sun in Australia is very strong, so it is always important to slip on a T-Shirt, slop on some sunscreen and slap on a hat. People can easily get sunburnt, even on a cloudy day. So always remember to SLIP SLOP SLAP when outdoors.

2. Australian beaches. At many beaches there are lifesavers who will keep an eye on people swimming between the flags on the beach. Australian waters are very difficult to swim in and many people drown every year. So when you go to a beach, always swim between the red and yellow flags.

3. Respect on the beach. It is impolite to take photos of other people on the beach. You can actually get arrested by the police for taking photos if someone reports you, especially in the case of taking pictures of children.

But you can have a very safe experience at the beach if you slip, slop, slap, swim only between the flags and respect other people at the beach. Also, remember to drink lots of water so that you don't dehydrate.

Enjoy !!!!

New Year in Melbourne –Let's All Party

---

This New Year's Eve , the city hosts a huge celebration along the Yarra River, from Birrarung Marr to the Docklands

FREE celebrations and entertainment will kick off in the city from 5pm and continue through to the countdown at midnight. There will be live bands, dancing and roving performers.

The party at Federation Square starts at 8pm. There will be music and two fantastic fireworks displays in the city and at Docklands. The first at 9.15pm followed by the dazzling midnight fireworks show.

But remember that New Years Eve in the city is a no-alcohol event in public places.

Public transport will run all night and is the easiest way to get in and out of the city. Getting a taxi is nearly impossible.
